CHAPTER 01 • READ TOGETHER

A Child in Makkah

Long ago, in the Arabian city of Makkah, a child named Muhammad was born. Rocky hills surrounded the city. Today, Makkah is in Saudi Arabia.

His father, Abdullah, had died before he was born. His mother, Aminah, died when he was still a child. Later, his grandfather, Abd al-Muttalib, cared for him. After his grandfather died, his uncle Abu Talib became his guardian.

These were real losses. A child can miss someone deeply and still receive love from the people who care for him. Young Muhammad needed care, just as every child does.

The Qur’an remembers his orphanhood and the shelter Allah provided. It also teaches care for children who have lost parental care and gentleness towards people asking for help.

Our first picture shows a neighbourhood, not a portrait. We begin with a simple thought: every child deserves safety, kindness and a place to belong.

LET’S THINK TOGETHER

Who helps you feel safe and cared for?
